WHO WE ARE

True happiness is the result of internal balance and a high degree of personal freedom. In an ever faster changing world, the need develops for individual rest zones for body, mind and spirit which are accessible at any time.

KONFO is positioning the massage chair as “the only cultural health product Japan has ever invented” aiming to have every home of the world own a massage chair such as the television and the refrigerator.

We know the industry inside and out. We understand that anyone researching massage chairs is faced with a daunting experience. KONFO is a good place to start. One thing you’ll notice when visiting massage chair sites is the dizzying number of chairs available on the market today. This can be confusing, making it difficult to find a massage chair with the most desirable features matching your budget.

It’s why we don’t believe in selling multiple chairs only distinguishable by a feature here or there — which can cause you to pay too much. Instead we carefully engineer a select number of massage chairs with the latest technology and features for discriminating buyers who want only the best, and at unbeatable value.

Be aware that “Massage Chair Review” sites pose as independent, when they are actually steering you towards the high-margin chairs they want you to buy. This guide allows you to easily and objectively compare our massage chairs and fitness equipment with our competitors’ high-end massage chairs.

KONFO has everything you want in a massage chair. The best technology, quality and price. Enjoy the luxury of a professional massage within the privacy of your own home. Pamper yourself from head to toe at your own convenience, as often as you wish.

Feel dramatically better physically and mentally in our massage chairs, and if you act now you can also sleep better than ever. We encourage you to compare our massage chairs head to head, to any chair on the market.

Product Introduction

NOT JUST DADDY'S CHAIR

If you have been suffering from depression, anxiety, nausea, stiffness, headaches, or pulled muscles lately, a shiatsu massage chair may interest you. A shiatsu massage chair provides a combination of rolling, tapping and kneading sensations for your body. These techniques are designed to mimic the touch you would experience from a human-powered shiatsu massage.

The word "Shiatsu" is a combination of two Japanese words "shi," which means finger, and "atsu" which means pressure. Shiatsu massage, which is also known as Zen Shiatsu, stems from Japanese massage traditions that deal with the theoretical, pious and medical characteristics of your body.

Practitioners of Shiatsu believe that your body needs to have clear "chi-flow" (Chi is energy) in order for your body to function optimally. In other words, Shiatsu is sort of like the opposite of reflexology, which deals with specific pressure points on the body. Shiatsu clears the channels of energy flow between points.

Therefore, to answer the question what is a shiatsu massage chair, you need to understand that the best massage chairs will offer a combination of shiatsu techniques and reflexology. The KONFO Supremo is our top-selling massage chairs that provide shiatsu settings. If you want to know more about what is a shiatsu massage chair, ask for a demo and see what it feels like to experience a true shiatsu massage.

Whether you are looking for relaxation or inspiration, with the variety of automatic programming and manual settings, there is nothing left to be desired. Innovative technologies regarding engineering and design make the KONFO Supremo a real highlight, and in addition, it makes you float and gives you as much space - from your shoulders to the soles of your feet, with heating function - as you need.

A massager in a class of air compression massage for the shoulders and the lumbar region. Inspired by oriental finger pressure massage. 15 minutes a day promises wellbeing, healing of blockages, resolution of tensions and happiness for remedy of psycho-emotional upsets. Once accustomed, you never want to do without it - unless you have a partner who is available at any time to a massage to the side.

Massage is a centuries-old tradition to regenerate the body and improve its performance. The different types and techniques of massage can be adjusted individually according to your personal needs, in order to achieve a soothing and relaxing effect. All functions can be easily operated and varied via the logical remote control. Decide yourself, what makes you feel good today.

Massage Chairs Benefits for Chronic Pain Sufferers.

Most believe massage chairs are a luxury item. A massage chair is certainly not necessary for everyday living, or for relieving back pain and neck pain. However, for some, the benefits that a massage chair can bring may outweigh the price. A good hands-on massage can play a crucial role in alleviating back pain.

Similarly, a good massage chair is designed to provide some measure of pain relief and relaxation, however, without the need for person-to-person interaction. Getting a massage in the privacy of home, along with convenience and time efficiency, are the major reasons why some are opting to go with a massage chair as a potential means to ease their back pain.

Comprehensive research has demonstrated that there are three central reasons why massage is beneficial:

Improves Venous and Lymphatic Flow — manipulating muscles increases blood flow. Increasing blood flow facilitates the circulation and absorption of nutritional elements into the muscles and tissues. Increasing lymphatic circulation clears toxins out of these areas. Together, this revitalizes the massaged area.

Decreases Tension and Improves Flexibility — massaging helps loosen tight and strained muscles. Stretching and kneading problem areas allow muscles to relax as well.

Increases Endorphin Levels — possibly the most beneficial aspect of massage. Endorphins are the 'feel good' chemicals that run through the body — increasing their levels induces positive results. Among other benefits, increasing endorphin levels has been correlated with quicker recovery, reduced pain, and reduced anxiety.

These benefits of massage work both physically and psychologically to help reduce common symptoms of back pain. Through the study of the human body and analysis of feedback, many massage chair designs have been developed with the goal of achieving similar benefits.

Potential Risks and Contraindications: In general, any type of massage is non-invasive and considered very low risk. While there aren't specific contraindications or risks associated with use of massage chairs, in general any of the contraindications to general massage therapy should be followed when using a massage chair.

Contraindications for massage therapy include: Infectious skin disease, unhealed wound, immediately after surgery, a tendency to form blood clots or if using blood thinners, circulatory ailments such as phlebitis or varicose veins, inflamed or infected injuries, areas of bleeding or heavy tissue damage, at the sites of recent fractures, sprains, or bruises.

How Do You Want to Feel Today?

Do you have a busy schedule and prefer life to work around you? Do you start to feel tension building in your body and decide you want a massage today? Do you love it when quality and convenience easily combine for you?

You know how it is when you work too hard and stress starts to build up. It affects your sense of joy, brings out those old aches and pains that make you pay attention, and even throws your digestion off if you're not careful.

You know you're not supposed to look tired and older than you are. Your back aches from slaving away at your desk, your neck is tense because you have to meet that deadline, and your knees hurt because they always tell you when it's time to stop and take care of yourself. You're stressed out and you don't feel like calling around all over town to try and find an opening for next week — you need it now.

Massage offers real health benefits, so much so that some conventional hospitals are making them a standard therapy for surgery patients and others. If you've never tried a massage chair before, it will likely only take you one try to understand why they're becoming so popular: they feel great.

This is because massage affects the nervous system through nerve endings in the skin, stimulating the release of endorphins, the body's natural 'feel good' chemicals. Massage is one of the oldest and simplest forms of medical care used to ease pain and anxiety, and massages have profound health benefits.

Massages, even between you and your significant other, can be an excellent addition to your healthy lifestyle. Endorphins help induce relaxation and a sense of well-being, relieve pain and reduce levels of stress chemicals such as cortisol and noradrenaline — reversing the damaging effects of stress by slowing heart rate, respiration and metabolism and lowering raised blood pressure.

Stronger massage stimulates blood circulation to improve the supply of oxygen and nutrients to body tissues and helps the lymphatic system to flush away waste products. It eases tense and knotted muscles and stiff joints, improving mobility and flexibility.

Massage is said to increase activity of the vagus nerve, one of 10 cranial nerves, that affects the secretion of food absorption hormones, heart rate and respiration. It has proven to be an effective therapy for a variety of health conditions — particularly stress-related tension, which experts believe accounts for as much as 80 percent to 90 percent of disease.

4 VITAL REASONS YOU SHOULD GET MESSAGES REGULARLY

Take Care of Your Body. It's the Only Place You Have to Live In.

Experience Your Best Self. Make Konfo Massage Chair Part of Everyday.

Do you treat yourself to massages? Should massages be considered a luxury or part of an overall wellness plan? We used to look at massages as a luxury item, but we now look at them as part of our wellness plan. Spend your money on a great massage chair than on a "thing" that just clutters up your house. So why you might not get massaged as often as you should?

There's a new study coming out every few weeks or months now it seems, scientifically confirming what we've known intuitively for literally hundreds of years: Massage shouldn't be treated so much as a luxury, but as a part of one's wellness plan, right alongside exercise and proper nutrition. With that said, here's 4 Vital Reasons You Should Get Massages Regularly:

1. Massage Reduces Anxiety and Stress. Massage Enhances Immunity.

It's said that the vast majority of diseases and their complications are brought on by anxiety and stress. Massage has been proven to lower cortisol levels in the body while increasing levels of serotonin and dopamine, thus helping to alleviate the stress we suffer from day to day, and promoting perspective and clarity. Massage promotes the movement of lymph, the body's natural defense system.

2. Massage Addresses Low Back Pain.

Massage addresses a number of musculoskeletal issues, but let's single out the leading cause of disability in India. 31 Million Indians are suffering low back pain at any given time, with over $50 million dollars spent every year spent on traditional medical treatment, worker's compensation, and lost time from work. A 2011 study found that regular massage to the lower back can help alleviate pain, and it didn't even matter whether it was deep tissue or lighter Swedish massage — bodywork in general to the low back is helpful.

3. Massage Reduces the Effects of Long Hours of Desk-Sitting and Driving.

The most common factors cause body pain are these two things: (1) The average Indian worker sits 8-9 hour a day either at a computer or behind the wheel, causing shoulders to become pulled forward and rounded, upper and lower back muscles to become overstretched and weak, and that's just what happens to the upper half of your body. Coupled with a regular exercise routine, massage can help alleviate pain, and keep those postural deviations in check.

4. Massage Helps Athletes Prepare and Recover from Events.

Many of us aren't just exercising regularly these days, but challenging ourselves with athletic events such as marathons and Iron Man competitions, and events like Tough Mudder. Massage to help recover from these events is great, but even better is incorporating it into your wellness program leading up to the big event. It will help reduce muscle soreness and tightness, and keep joints mobile and flexible.

Rest. Refresh. Restore. We Bring Health and Relaxation to You.
